Abstract : The present study “Aspiration of Tribal Students Towards Agriculture” was conducted in Amravati district of Chikhaldara, and Dharni tahsil has been selected as it has a larger tribal student population. The exploratory research design was used in the present investigation. The present study was carried out in the Amravati district of the Vidarbha region. to know the aspirations of the tribal student towards agriculture. There are two colleges selected: Arts Science and Commerce College, Chikhaldara and Shri Vasantnao Naik Mahavidyalaya, Dharni. There are 120 final-year students selected from two colleges, from these three faculties i.e., arts, science, and commerce, 40 students were selected from each faculty. All students were selected purposively for study. i.e., 60 students selected from each college. The data was collected by personally interviewing the respondents with the help of the presented structured schedule. The collected data was first tabulated, and then mean, frequency, standard deviation, and correlation were employed for interpretation of the findings. The characteristics of the tribal students, namely land holding, family education status, size of family, occupation of parents, academic performance, annual income, mass media utilization, and gender, were studied as independent variables. The aspiration of tribal students was studied as the dependent variable.
